BOLIVAR, TENN.
W. A. H. McDaniel, Editor.
Published Every Tuesday $100
Per Year.

The State Wheel is, with the people and "agin" the bosses who "if they cannot rule propose to ruin."—Memphis Appeal.

Hon. Jesse Norment is a true friend and statesman. He studies public questions thoroughly, and deliberates well before he acts. His record is clear and distinguished. What better man could we want for congress?

The Knoxville Journal says, "the papers are 'agin' Bob, but the obstinate masses in the Democratic party seem to be for him."

It is a waste of both attention and energy to discuss a question with a man who has neither common sense nor common decency.

Though few in number, yet they were of the right stripe. We refer to the democrats who assembled here last Monday.

This paper proposes to support just such men, measures, and public acts as it chooses, and condemn just such as it chooses. Bullying, ranting nor even shot guns can in the least affect its course.

A majority of those with whom the Bulletin has conferred give it as their opinion that at least two thirds of the democrats of this county are in favor of R. L. Taylor's renomination. The Bulletin respectfully refers them to last Monday's convention which will certainly convince them that they are mistaken.

The New Political Era.
From the San Francisco Alta.
The country is in revolt against the old order of things. The days of the old order are numbered. Straddling is no longer heroic. The man who thinks getting into office is the aim and end of parties will have to save wood for cold meat while we have a contention of principles.

Mrs. Frank Leslie told a reporter recently that she had declined on an average two offers of marriage every day of her life. Just think of it!—seven hundred and thirty men made miserable every year, and this year, being leap year, seven hundred and thirty-two. How can Mrs. Leslie, in view of all this misery, so about with a smiling face. Is her fate to be irresistible, but is it not a sad fate?

How They Stand.

The Fight for the Governorship as Developed by the Conventions.

Counties instructed for Taylor: Carter 4; Claiborne 7; Cooke 9; Grainger 3; Green 21; Hamblen 9; Jefferson 8; Johnson 2; Sevier 8; Sullivan 22; Union 1; Putnam 11; Total 169.

Counties instructed for McConnell: Carter 10; Hancock 4; Hawkins 15; Jones 8; Loudon 5; Monroe 13; Meigs 7; Polk 7; Total 64.

Instructed for Caldwell: Crockett 14; Union 25; Total 39.

Instructed for Treadwell: Sumner 22; Counties instructed: Anderson 6; Dickson 13; Hardeman 18; Total 37.

East Tennessee is rallying to the support of Bob in such overwhelming numbers as to terrorize his enemies.

PROXY.

The debate over the Coates resolution last Monday in our county convention revives the question of giving or not giving proxies in Hardeman. For several years a resolution interdicting proxies has been trotted through our conventions without any manifest opposition. As to whether they were best or not best did not become a question. But on last Monday Capt. Wilkes raised a cry against the prohibition. Capt. McNeal, with his usual good nature and patriotism proposed an amendment which was given, but only to delegates who had been endorsed by the convention. The amendment was accepted by a strong and enthusiastic vote. The Bulletin thinks Mr. McNeal's amendment proposed the true and proper disposition of the matter. The rule of no-proxies has always practically choked off the country people, and farmers from having any voice in the state or congressional conventions. A few men with money and time and these who busy themselves with politics attended the conventions and voted the county as they chose. Now, every man who is a delegate may give his proxy, and instruct the delegate who bears it, exactly for whom that proxy must be voted. This gives you as much voice as if you were present on the floor. This is right and the Bulletin approves it. But if proxies were allowed to be given promiscuously and indiscriminately it would be a great evil. Unscrupulous men who would not have the shadow of a showing for indorsement in a convention could go around and gather up proxies, and thus armed could perpetrate great mischief in a convention.

HARDMAN RESOLUTIONS.

The resolutions introduced by Capt. A. T. McNeal in the county convention held at this place Monday, which were unanimously adopted by said convention, and are printed elsewhere in the Bulletin, contain the very cream of Democratic teachings. The great democratic patriarchs who were soul and sunshine to the fathers of the republic taught the same truths. These doctrines have been cherished and maintained in the bosom of the democratic party all along down the intervening years, and have at all times found expression in the gallant leaders and teachers of our party. Capt. McNeal is certainly sound and very sound upon the questions set forth in these resolutions. They are in perfect harmony with the views presented by the Bulletin in its columns from time to time and we, therefore, endorse them most heartily as a whole and in all their parts. Every class of citizens present felt that each line and word echoed the true principles and functions of government. It was a bold manly paper, and in clearness of statement has no equal, except in the message of our president to the last congress. It is a defense of the rights and interests of the people against the encroachments and greed of rings, corporations, and trusts. The Bulletin under its present management has constantly and earnestly maintained that the people must be protected and must protect themselves against the trickery and robbery of combinations in every form. Such combinations always seek to make tools and slaves of the people in order to build up and enrich themselves. Legislation or even license which tend to the creation and fostering of any or all of these are dangerous, and menace the liberties and prosperity of the people. The chief object of the different agricultural associations of our country is to protect themselves against the encroachments of organized power. High tariff and a majority of the subsidy schemes operate to the favoring of the few to the injury and impoverishment of the many. Illustrations of these facts, and arguments in support of their correctness have been presented by the Bulletin to its readers so often that we will not tax this article with any effort of that kind.

The Hardeman resolutions, introduced by McNeal, will be cordially seconded by every wheeler and democrat in old Hardeman.

The Bulletin is continually being congratulated upon the fact that it has presented a greater number of subjects for public consideration and general discussion than at any time during its eventful career. It is told us that some gentlemen give a large part of their time constantly to the discussion of questions and subjects suggested by the Bulletin. We feel greatly gratified, if these reports be true. It is our pleasure to interest the public, and get the Bulletin well advertised.

CLINT ATKINS.

There can no longer be any doubt as to whether Gen. Atkins will enter the race for the senatorship. He has signified his intention to do so in positive and unmistakable words. He has decided to make the race without even consulting Senator Harris. He proposes to make the fight on his own merits, and he expects to win. The Bulletin was among the first papers in Tennessee to put forward his name for the distinguished place of United States senator. We believed him then to be the best man in the state for the place—we believe it now, and will continue to believe it until he is elected. He is a great and grand man—a man of the people—a man whose heart pulsates in union with the masses, a man who loves the farmer and who studies the farmer's interest. He is a farmer himself, and takes pleasure in his fruit bearing fields, and his grazing herds. He is a scholar, a statesman, and a gentleman. He has rendered years of pure and able service to his people and to the democratic party. As chairman of the ways and means committee in congress he cut down the expense of the general government several million dollars which were saved to the people to lighten their burdens of taxation. He is decidedly the peer of Harris as a statesman, and will be Tennessee's next senator.

The Trio of Young Bloods.

On the legislative canvas for Hardeman we see many names painted. But among the long list we are especially attracted by three names, representing three young men who only a few months since bade farewell to college halls and law schools. These gentlemen are James A. Foster, W. M. Matthews, and J. D. Casselberry. The fact that their names in connection with the representation is now a part of public talk shows that they possess within an inherent energy and ability, and a laudable ambition far in advance of what we ordinarily witness. This pluck and talent of theirs, and the evidences of public appreciation indicate that they may enter the contest with encouraging prospects.

The Complexion of the Delegates.

The Hardeman delegation to the gubernatorial convention stands about as follows: McConnell 40, Taylor 29, Total 68. Hardeman is entitled to 18 votes in the convention. This will give McConnell 10 to 10-17 and Taylor 7-17, a majority of 23-17 in favor of McConnell. This canvass reveals a fact which will startle some of our readers. Because it is generally conceded by those who were present at the convention, and is now generally believed over the county, that at least five-eighths of the convention were for Taylor. The facts show one of four conditions: First, that the people are mistaken in their belief that a majority of the convention were for Bob. Or, 2nd, that more McConnell men were able and willing to go to the state convention than Taylor men, and that the districts agreed to send them because they could go. Or, 3rd, that the McConnell men bossed the convention, and dictated or rather suggested to the districts who to appoint. Or, 4th, the McConnell men went among the delegates, and were successful in securing what they asked.

The most probable condition we think is the first. A delegation of Hardeman democrats would be too intelligent, and have too much backbone to allow the themselves bossed, or to appoint men who would come around and beg to be appointed, in order to go up to Nashville and vote the contrary to their wishes.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Middleton Tenn. March 30, 1888.

Editor Bulletin—New while the expense of feeling throughout the country is made more emphatic by the personal experience of every farmer in the destruction of timber and hard, disagreeable work of rail splitting and repairing for this year, it seems a suitable time for a few words on the no fence law and we would be glad to have an expression from farmers in all parts of the county. We farmers complain of tariff, taxes, and oppressions generally but burden ourselves with the expense of fencing which takes more from our pockets than any other evil and we are not excusable in doing so because we have the remedy in our own hands. A decent living, dug out of farms is not an easy task, especially when there are so many side tracks waiting to switch off our change and there is a side track on every farm that is on the inside of a rail fence. Every time a farmer puts a rail on his farm fence he loses one cent unnecessarily. I would not undertake the job by calculating the cost of fencing in Hardeman county but will take my neighborhood of seven farmers who represent 30 miles of rail fence. To build this at $64 per mile costs $1920; this costs every ten years or say it takes 10 per cent annually to keep in repair or $192. Suppose we turn out the farms and fence the stock by $92 per year and have a three months school or something else profitable out of the $100. Will it not pay better than fencing a farm in order to turn out a dozen razor back hogs and cows? Suppose every farmer in Hardeman takes a look at his timber, let him think whether he ever expects cattle to pay enough profit to justify him in keeping more than he can provide with pasture at small expense. Think about the porker, will he not do better and make more meat and be more free from disease if you put him in a pasture and feed him rather than let him "root hog or die" in the woods?

Please give us your honest opinions, brother farmers, and it seems practicable let us take some steps in the matter and not stand in our own light or carry a burden of our own foolishness when we know it.

J. T. GLENN.

HON. JAMES PHELAN.

A Compliment to the Young Congressman From the Mississippi Valley.
From the (Cal.) Democrat.
The youngest, and in all probability the best educated member of the present Congress, is Hon. James Phelan, Democrat, from Memphis, Tenn. He is 31 years of age; was born at Alderden, Miss., and is descended from a distinguished Southern family; his father was a member of the Confederate Senate and ranked as one of the most brilliant debaters in that celebrated body; his uncle, Judge John D. Phelan, was long a leading lawyer of Alabama and served many years on the Supreme Bench of that State; a cousin of the same is now Secretary of State in Alabama; ex-Gov. O'Neal, of the same State, is an uncle on his mother's side. Several years ago his sister, Miss Katie Phelan, one of most widely known beauties in the Southern States, married Wade Hampton, Jr. Mr. Phelan attended college in this country until his 19th year when he entered the University of Leipzig, Germany, where he spent five years, taking the highest degree conferred by that celebrated institution.

THE CONVENTION.

The Democratic county convention was called to order at 12 o'clock on the 2nd of April 1888, by C. H. Anderson, chairman of the county executive committee, on motion of Dr. W. A. Lowe, Hon. J. A. Manson was elected chairman, and on motion of T. E. Webb, A. J. Coates was elected secretary.

On motion of C. A. Miller each district was allowed to select their own delegates to the State convention allowing one delegate for every 25 democratic votes.

The following delegates were selected to represent them in the State convention to be held at Nashville on the 9th of May next:

District 1. Dr. R. M. Bestwick, J. T. Lowe, J. A. Bass, W. A. Lowe, J. A. Manson and F. L. Pledge.

District 2. R. J. Harris, D. W. McAnulty and P. H. McKinnis.

District 3. J. W. Bass, O. B. Polk and Thomas Polk.

District 4. H. B. Wynne, J. W. Wilkes, W. M. Sedders, T. C. Stewart, J. T. Moore and W. H. McGuire.

District 5. S. H. Clinton and W. A. Caruthers.

District 6. Jesse Norment, A. T. McNeal, J. J. Neely, Sr. Austin Miller, Wm. Kearney, C. H. Anderson and P. T. Jones.

District 7. R. B. Ray.

District 8. J. D. Sasser, Jr.

District 9. W. D. Galloway and R. W. Smith.

District 10. G. N. McConnell, A. J. Coates and G. W. Dowdy.

District 11. J. D. Sasser, J. A. Foster, T. H. Tipler, G. W. Wilson, C. M. Lambert and J. R. Reeves.

District 12. W. V. Murphy, W. A. H. Weatherly and T. B. Hurt.

District 13. Wm. Thompson, G. W. Breeden, R. N. Mitchell, A. J. Coates and M. H. Jernigan.

District 14. Wm. Wiggins and C. A. Miller, J. J. Young.

District 15. W. C. Pirtle, Geo. Bradford, R. J. Pirtle, F. M. McGlathery and J. W. Nuckolls.

District 16. G. P. McClendon, J. R. Swenson and J. E. Comer.

District 17. W. T. F. Thompson, J. T. Stevens and T. E. Webb.

District 18. James McCann, W. T. Deming and W. D. Siler.

District 19. G. W. Garrett and A. C. Nelms.

District 20. W. M. Mathews.

And on motion of J. R. Reeves the above named gentlemen were elected by the convention the delegates.

On motion of Dr. W. A. Lowe the delegation was instructed to vote for A. T. McNeal for one of the delegates from this Congressional District to the National Democratic Convention at St. Louis.

The following resolutions were offered by A. T. McNeal and unanimously adopted by the convention:

Resolved, By the democracy of Hardeman county in convention assembled

1st. We endorse the administration of our President, Grover Cleveland and favor his renomination. We especially endorse his last message to Congress in regard to tariff taxation.

2nd. We believe the purpose of tariff taxation should be solely for necessary revenue and we oppose any other legislation to protect any industry whatever at the expense of others (whether the others be individual or corporate infants or giants as the case may be.)

3rd. We believe in local self government, beginning with the family and going upward through the county and state, to the Federal Government retaining all power in the people not necessary to be surrendered to state or federal legislatures for the good of the whole country and all its people. Hence, we oppose all legislative subsidies for special interest, and all legislative interference with local affairs not imperatively demanded for the common good, and in no case would agree to any legislation which would not be fair to all classes and conditions alike.

4th. We advocate exact and even justice to the corporations (the creatures of our Government) as fully as to the individuals who create and administer.

ated them, but we believe that the growth of communism and socialism in our land, and the complaints of labor against organized capital, have been for the most part caused by the greedy encroachments of corporate power, and the swindling growth of monopoly in commercial combinations and trusts.

We believe the great conservative element in the land, is represented by individual force and energy, and in no sense represented by corporate or commercial combinations which absorb all profits for the few and tend to monopoly. And the overwhelming majority of this conservative element are the tillers of the ground.

We utterly repudiate the idea that any action in politics or legislation should be demanded for any class of men or any kind of special interests. For the farmers of the country and others who represent individual force and energy, and have not gone into pools and trusts for profit, we ask simply justice from our Government so that fair dealing and common honesty may go abroad in the land, and so that the multitude shall not be robbed under color of law to enrich a few under the twin banners of a pseudo development and a sham progress.

The following resolution was offered by A. J. Coates and amended on motion of A. T. McNeal. The amended resolution was adopted as follows:

Resolved, That no proxy be allowed in the Hardeman delegation unless given to a delegate selected by this convention.

On motion the convention adjourned.

The Very Man.

Nearly a column of yesterday's issue of the Scimitar was devoted to Capt. W. A. Collier. It is not likely that so much space would be given to a mere rumor that he might accept the honor which is urged upon him. It may be said with a reasonable degree of certainty, therefore, that Capt. Collier would not be averse to representing Tennessee as a delegate to the convention which assembled at St. Louis in May to nominate a national Democratic ticket.

The friends of the Hon James Phelan will find in this matter for much felicitation. With his legion of friends and admirers all over the district, and the cordial support of the Appeal, which he could have counted upon with almost absolute certainty he had decided to enter the race for Congress, and occupying as they do much the same position in state politics, the battle must have been warm and interesting, and the joy of either in victory must have been damped by the knowledge that it was obtained at the expense of the other. It is therefore a relief to know that the friends of both may be permitted to urge the claims of both, and that they will not be obliged to choose.

All other considerations aside, it affords the AVA-LANCHE pleasure to be able to present Capt. Collier's name as a candidate for delegate from the state at large, strengthened with the conviction that he will accept.

It is the duty of Tennessee to send her ablest and best men to the national convention. The state's delegation should be of such a character as to impress the convention with a proper idea of its standing in the Union. Keeping that idea distinctly in mind, Capt. Collier's name comes up naturally. He enjoys, without question, wider acquaintance with public men and a more intimate knowledge of national affairs than any other private citizen in the state. He is alive to all the great questions of the hour, abreast with the lightning times in which he lives, brave and progressive in his views, unbiased by local influences, a clear thinker and logical and pleasing speaker. He is graceful in style, though incisive and altogether one of the few men in this part of the state who would be sure to make themselves felt in a powerful body such as the St. Louis Convention is sure to be.—Avalanche.

The Bulletin cheerfully testifies to all that the Avalanche and Scimitar has said concerning Capt. W. A. Collier's fitness and ability to represent Tennessee in the National Democratic convention. He is a strong supporter of Cleveland and his administration.

Sasser & Co., Middleton; Tipler & Kearney, Pine Top; W. E. Nether, Pocahontas; W. J. Cox, Saulsbury; J. W. Nuckolls, Town; Dr. J. S. Robertson, Whiteville.

The Physicians have Found out

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive subcutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggregating as a calcareous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hewitt's Sarsaparilla and Iodide of Potash is so important as this, namely, that this medicine of complete success checks the formation and accumulation of this element in the blood, and established that it is preferable to the various other used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is a tried and tested remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder ailments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.
